

MARQUAND COLLECTION SALE.

ALL THE ART CONTENTS OF A FAMOUS HOUSE AT AUCTION.

Buyers From All Over the World Likely to Compete for Them—Tapestries, Rugs, Porcelains, Lacquers, Cameos, Silver, and the Alma-Tadema Plaque.

The art treasures of the late Henry G. Marquand are to be sold at auction. No other work than treasures expresses with justice the character of the exquisite works of art in the remarkable collection which Mr. Marquand brought together, in years of devotion to the study and pursuit of art's beauties and wonders.

His home, at Madison Avenue and Sixty-eighth street, was a veritable House Beautiful. Mr. Marquand began with architecture in his study of the arts, and for his services in seeking to bring about an improvement in the architecture of New York he was elected the first honorary member of the National Institute of Architects.

When he built his home he set out to make a handsome house, and when that was done he adorned its interior with the finest products of the loom and the needle and the most admirable productions of the potter and the sculptor that have survived from the earlier art eras which a travelled and cultivated taste and large means enabled him to procure.

These he disposed, as only one who loved them could, about his house, and made it one of the most fascinating residences in New York to those who enjoy finding themselves surrounded by works of art of many nations, yet no object crowding upon another. To the textiles and porcelains, glasses and tapestries he added masterpieces of painting, achievements in modern design and product of the skill of adept handicraftsmen of older and less hurried times.

All of these acquisitions, the whole art contents of his captivating house, are to be dispersed by order of Mr. Marquand's executors, who have arranged with the American Art Association for their sale at public auction. The collection is so well known for some of its parts that collectors, museums and dealers all over the world will undoubtedly attend in large numbers at the sale.

As an event in the art world, the sale promises to be of importance comparable to that of the Mary J. Morgan sale, the proceeds of which amounted to more than $1,250,000. Mr. Marquand's tapestries and Oriental rugs are among the most notable objects in his collection. Among them is a Persian sarraf, a famous rug, which was sold at private sale for $25,000 to $30,000. The number of them obtained by Mr. Marquand is said to be more than fifty. They have been willing to pay any price to get them. Mr. Marquand's has been kept under glass to preserve it, although it is an excellent condition.

Some of his rugs and embroideries of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries are examples such as have not appeared before at public sale. There are also some Renaissance tapestries, of Gobelins, Flemish and Portuguese weave, in delightful color. One of the finest of them came from the Duke of Orleans, and is said to be a reproduction of a famous tapestry.

In creations of those unrivaled colorists, the porcelain makers of China in their days of greatest distinction, Mr. Marquand accumulated some of the finest and most valuable possessions. His single color specimens in peachbloom, saumon-de-buff, celadon, ivory white, clair de lune, turquoise, yellow and green, include famous pieces which challenge the connoisseur's eye, as do examples in the teinté glaze, flamed pieces and soft-paste blue and white.

There are also fine Chinese vases, and some are Persian and Hispano-Moresque plaques and wall tiles, displaying all the magnificence of their makers' art, such as the famous teinté glaze plaques, which were from the Alhambra which is built into Mr. Marquand's house. Among the fifteenth century majolica is a work of Luca della Robbia.

The porcelains and pottery will occupy two days of the sale. Mr. Marquand's paintings are few but valuable. They will all be sold in one evening. The English portraits are all portraits of women. There are several Gainsboroughs, Raeburns and Reynolds, with canvases by Romney, Hopper and Turner. There are also some French, Leighton and Sir E. L. Alma-Tadema, and Edwin A. Abbey.

Among the pieces of furniture which will be sold are a grand piano, which was designed for Mr. Marquand by Alma-Tadema, and the inside of the cover of which was decorated by Sir Edward Poynter. The piano is a grand piano, the piano cost Mr. Marquand $350.00.

Matching the piano in style, there is a drawing-room suite which was designed by Alma-Tadema. The furniture is of unusual quality, Japanese lacquers, brilliant enamel of Limoges and other production, specimens of griffin enamel, antique bronze, Italian and Chinese, and some of the most beautiful glass, silver, terra cotta groups, and works in antique ivory, make up other parts of the collection.

Mr. Marquand's art library is also to be sold, with some rare mezzotints, etchings and old water colors. The auction will extend over two weeks. It will take place at the beginning of the next season of art sales, probably in January, 1903 at the American Art Galleries.

Work is soon to be begun on the preparation of a catalogue of the collection, which is to be in symmetrical form with many illustrations. It is promised that the catalogue shall be made representative of an splendid collection. The sale of the collection will be in 250 copies, which will be sold by subscription at publication cost.

CATAWAS OF BATTERY PARK.

Three Small Boys With a Stray Cat Seek Refuge in the Old Ship Station.

Three small boys, apparently between four and seven years of age, wandered into the old ship station, yesterday afternoon, and were taken in by a stray cat. One of them carried a cat, also a vagrant, but decidedly the most composed member of the party. They said that their father had taken them to Battery Park early in the morning, saying that he would be back in a minute.

Further questions brought out the information that they lived near the corner of Henry and Clinton streets. The sergeant considered them, and started them up Front street in charge of a patrolman, a bystander having provided for all possible expenses of the journey by giving each a nickel. They were evidently true to companions in misfortune, for when last seen the cat was tightly clutched in his chance acquaintance's arms.

Four chairs, $20; one bench, $5. There is one Italian bootblack in Park row who has discovered a way to avoid the five-dollar license fee for each chair a bootblack has on his stand. Yesterday he put up a bench which seats four persons and took away the four chairs and he has paid for one chair. The Italian says that he expects a visit from some of the Mayor's Marshal's men but that he had the opinion of a lawyer before he had the bench made. He has not taken out a patent and he says he will by next Sunday there will be lots of benches.

The Vermont to Leave us Forever. The old receiving ship Vermont, which was sold a short time ago by the Government for $15,000, is to be taken away from the Brooklyn Navy Yard tomorrow to Newport, Me., where she will be broken up. To recover the old iron and copper that is in her.

WANTED POLICE TO KEEP HER.

Kirwin Invented a Robbery Story When He Feared Miss Wilson Would Leave Him.

The telephone bell in Police Headquarters rang violently at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. To the clerk who answered came this message:

"I'm George Kirwin, a Deputy Constable from Philadelphia, and I've a woman, Elsie Wilson, here in the Occidental Hotel, Grand and Bowery, that stole $2,500 worth of diamonds in Philadelphia. I want her kept."

Detective Sergeant Leonard hustled down to the hotel and found it in an uproar as a result of Kirwin's actions. He pointed out the Wilson woman and she was put under arrest by Leonard. Kirwin was unwilling to give up the woman, and he was taken to the police station.

Leonard refused to see the joke. After the Philadelphia police had assured him over the phone that the woman was not the same as the one who had stolen the diamonds, he was released.

Lanning Held on a Charge of Larceny on a Lawyer's Complaint.

A CHINESE CANFIELD'S RAIDED.

Twelve Men Found Playing on an Ivory Inlaid Table and Arrested.

As three detectives were standing in Norton's stable on Mott street, where the patrol wagon of the Elizabeth street station is kept, yesterday afternoon, a Chinaman complained to them that he had lost money at a "swell pigwog joint" on the top floor of a Mott street.

The detectives broke in a door of a front room there and found twelve Chinamen playing chiao men dominoes on the most expensive kind of an ivory inlaid table. About a dozen of the men were arrested. The twelve Chinese were arrested. None of them would admit owning the table, and the police are at a loss to know who is the proprietor.

SETBACK TO GEN. McALPIN.

Majority of Osmington Republicans Under Lent Leadership.

OSMINGTON, N. Y., May 18.—Plans of Gen. E. A. McAlpin, millionaire tobaccoist, to obtain control of Republican affairs in Westernchester had a serious setback when the Republican caucus held on Saturday afternoon to elect delegates to the various conventions.

For several years Osmington Republicans have looked upon ex-Judge Smith as their leader, and have supported him time and again in preference to Gen. McAlpin. Last fall Judge Lent failed of reelection, and the McAlpin faction, thinking the Judge's defeat had ended his political power, at once set up a Town Committee and a week ago held a caucus, at which delegates to the conventions were elected.

Two hundred and seven votes were cast by the McAlpin faction. At Saturday's caucus, called by the old Town Committee, of which Judge Lent is chairman, 328 votes were cast, a majority of 130 over the vote of the McAlpin faction.

The Assembly District Convention, which will be held on next Tuesday at Mount Kisco, will be the occasion when the claims of the two factions will be made known to the voters. The delegates from Osmington will be decided.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 18.—Peter Lauman, a farmhand, employed by Charles Wyman, at Green Village, five miles south of this city, became crazed last night. He attacked Mr. Wyman's front door with an axe. After breaking it in he began to demolish the furniture.

When Mr. Wyman appeared, Lauman slashed at him. Then he ran to the rear of the house, where he started to repeat the performance. Mr. Wyman was compelled to use his shotgun and gave Lauman a full charge in the breast.

Mr. Wyman had telephoned to Sheriff Baker, who arrived with five men. He found Lauman had been bound hand and foot and securely tied. He was brought to the police station to-day his cries were heard nearly a block away. Dr. Willis removed twenty-five shots from his breast and while doing so he was kept screaming. A physician, Lauman is not seriously wounded.

DOG IN A DRAIN OVER NIGHT.

Wedge in Gang of Workmen Called to Dig Him Out.

MILLERS, N. J., May 18.—After being imprisoned in a six-inch pipe buried in the roadway at Main and Taylor streets since Friday, a little curly-haired dog of the "yaller" persuasion was released late yesterday by a force of workmen who dug up the pipe.

The dog is owned by Nicholas Zizzi. He was following a man on Friday and suddenly darted into the opening of the drain, which is about fifty feet long. About half an hour later the police were called, but they did nothing, and Overman of the Roads Marshall set a force of men at work to dig up the pipe.

After several hours' work one length of pipe was dug up, but the dog was in another length and more digging had to be done. At last the dog was released amid cheers from a large crowd.
